

It would be a mistake to implement any proposal that would weaken or lessen the protections to citizens by diminishing the provisions of the Indiana Telephone Privacy law("ITPL"). Since we have subscribed to the protections under the ITPL, the nuisance telephone calls from unsolicited vendors has dropped drastically, i.e. from about 20/30 calls a week to less than 5. Most of the solicitation calls were concentrated from 6:00 PM to 9:00 PM which makes for a very disruptive evening. Under the protection of the ITPL our household now can now answer the phone in the evening for desired calls without the annoyance and interruption of unwanted, unsolicited and time wasting telephone "sales pitches"! The ITPL enacted was responsive to our problem and has been effective, so don't set standards that will weaken its effectiveness! Thank you for your consideration of the foregoing.
